Reflections of Nature

Sunsets

The end of the day is a perfect time to reflect... to marvel at the beauty of the heavens as another day passes into night.

The sun sinking into the sea or slipping behind a snowcapped mountain range can be the crowning jewel to a perfect day.

Oceans

Beneath the surface of the ocean is a world that is so unlike ours, it is difficult to believe it exists on the same planet.

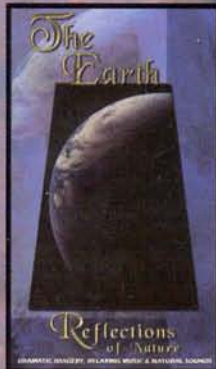

Dive the shipwrecks of the Caribbean and glide silently past vibrant coral reefs teeming with life.

Deserts

Scorched by the sun and carved over millions of years by relentless winds, the desert pays tribute to nature's beauty in its most rugged form.

Amid the stark isolation of Death Valley, the Badlands, Arches and Canyonlands, life clings precariously to the fragile ecosystem.

The Earth

Gliding in orbit, 200 miles above the surface of the Earth, one finds complete and total serenity.

Imagine the unbelievable power of a hurricane as you stare into the eye of the storm while it pinwheels across vast oceans. This is Earth as you have never seen it!

The Heavens

Across millions of light years the Hubble Space Telescope probes the Universe and offers us a glimpse into distant worlds...

There you would witness the birth of a new star, the death of an entire galaxy and wonders we can only imagine...

Streams & Waterfalls

The power of the waterfall and the tranquility of the stream... these elements of nature hold a timeless, almost hypnotic fascination for all who gaze upon them.

For thousands of years, in a perpetually cascading mist, a waterfall may tumble forever.

Mountains

For thousands of years man has marveled at the foot of these great promontories...

From Denali in Alaska through the Colorado Rockies and on to Mexico's Sierra Madres, the Mountains will inspire and delight you...

Shorelines

This is where the land meets the sea. Here the sights & sounds of endless waves breaking upon shore soothes the soul...

From the fog bound coast of Maine to the rugged Baja Peninsula you will be captivated in endless hours of reflection.
